

Legs Feeling Tired and Old?

Carolina Vein Center can help
Restore youth, vitality, and energy to your legs!

Along with the self-consciousness you may be feeling from your unsightly legs, the diseased veins may also be responsible for the tired, aching, throbbing, swollen, itchy, and even restless symptoms that make your legs feel older and more tired than they should. “We can dramatically improve the health and appearance of your legs,” assures Lindy McHutchison, MD, Medical Director of the Carolina Vein Center.

Dr. McHutchison

Dr. McHutchison’s practice is devoted exclusively to the treatment, both medical and cosmetic, of varicose veins. Dr. McHutchison is a highly trained physician in the medical field of Phlebology, the study, diagnosis, and treatment of venous disease, and a member of the American College of Phlebology.

“Many people are unaware varicose veins can be a medical problem. The abnormal veins may be causing their leg symptoms, and if so, insurance companies might cover their treatment,” notes Dr. McHutchison. “Most also don’t realize if diseased veins are left untreated, more serious consequences may occur over time, including blood clots, phlebitis, skin changes, and ulceration.”

Varicose veins may be making your legs feel tired and old, but the best treatments can bring back the youthfulness you’ve missed

Modern Technology

To determine the best way to improve your leg’s circulation, the experts at the Carolina Vein Center take a comprehensive approach to evaluating your legs. This frequently involves a special duplex ultrasound performed by a specially trained technician to “map” your veins and determine the direction of blood flow in your veins. Even though obvious veins may or may not be seen on the skin’s surface, ultrasound is needed to detect problems often caused by larger, superficial veins underneath the skin.

All the latest techniques and procedures are office-based and done at the Carolina Vein Center in a pleasant office setting. Most patients return to usual daily activities the very next day! Details about procedures performed can be seen at www.CarolinaVeinCenter.com.

Classic Care

“We are like an old-fashioned practice within a high-tech world,” assures Dr. McHutchison. “We develop relationships with our patients and take time to educate and explain things to them. My patients have my cell phone number, and I am available when they need me.”

The Carolina Vein Center offers more than just technology; it offers ongoing support.

“All we do is veins, every day. It’s not just an add-on service for us,” reminds Dr. McHutchison. “Veins are my passion.”

CAROLINA VEIN CENTER
SOUTHPOINT