Legs feeling tired and old?

Carolina Vein Center can help restore youth, vitality and energy to your legs!

Unhealthy veins are not only unsightly, but they may also be responsible for sluggish circulation causing legs to feel tired, achy, throbbing, swollen, itchy and restless, resulting in legs that feel older than they should. “We can dramatically improve the health and appearance of your legs,” assures Lindy McHutchison, MD, Medical Director of the Carolina Vein Center.

Dr. McHutchison’s practice is devoted exclusively to the treatment of varicose veins, both medical and cosmetic. She is specially trained in phlebology (recognized by the AMA), the field of medicine dedicated to the study, diagnosis and treatment of venous disease.

“Many people are unaware varicose veins can be a medical problem. The abnormal veins may be causing their leg symptoms. If so, insurance companies may cover their treatment,” notes Dr. McHutchison. “Most don’t realize, if varicose veins are left untreated, with time, more serious consequences may occur including blood clots, phlebitis, skin changes and ulceration.”

MODERN TECHNOLOGY

The experts at the Carolina Vein Center take a comprehensive and systematic approach to evaluating your legs. Frequently, larger veins below the skin are the root of the circulation problem. Our venous technician will “map” your veins and evaluate blood flow using a special dulpex ultrasound.

Personalized treatment plans are created. The latest techniques, short office procedures, are performed in our pleasant office setting. Most patients return to usual daily activities the very next day! See procedures available on our Web site

CLASSIC CARE

“We are an old-fashioned practice within a high-tech world,” assures Dr. McHutchison. “We develop relationships with our patients, take time to educate and explain things to them. My patients have my cell phone number. I am available when they need me.”

When asked what makes CVC special McHutchison noted, “All we do is veins, every day. Veins aren’t just an add-on service for us. Most importantly, veins are my hobby!”
